

Date: Tuesday, May 13 2008 @ 18:55:33 EDT
Topic: Why do we Crossdress?

why do i crossdress

I like most crossdressers i suppose cant remember when i first started, seems like a long time ago. Why did i start, again i dont really no, but once i had i found it impossible to stop. In the early days dressing was not a problem as i lived alone, even then i was always worried about being caught. Over the years i have had many girlfriends who found out about my alterego, most by accident finding my girlie clothes and thinking i was seeing someone else.

I can only remember one who was shocked and i never saw her again, her loss, most seemed interest and keen to see me made up. This came as a shock to me a first and i was very reluctant to share this side of me. But once i had come out to one there was no stopping me.

Then i meet my wife to be, do i tell her or not, what can you say i did not want to scare her off, so i never told her. For years i dressed insecret whenever she was out always worried about being caught, then we had kids, talk about putting life on hold. Dressing up was never as hard. Things changed again when they started school, i found tme to be me again.

The time had finally come for me to tell the wife, what would she say?. To my supprise she was not upset or shocked and has over the years helped me buy clothes,wigs and make-up. I am allowed to be karen when ever i want, and she sees me as another female when we spend time together. When she goes shopping she will buy for karen aswell as kevin. I can only say to you all out there that the love and understanding of a good woman is worth more than anything you could ask for.

This article comes from TG Times - The online social network for Transgender people:
<http://www.tgtimes.co.uk>

The URL for this story is:

<http://www.tgtimes.co.uk/modules.php?name=News&op=NEArticle&sid=20>